

Indigo is proud to have over 40 years' experience providing assistive technology (devices and equipment) and allied health services.

Previously known as the Independent Living Centre, we rebranded in January 2020 but have retained our assistive technology specialised knowledge and customer-first focus.

During this time, we have supported hundreds of thousands of Western Australians of all ages and abilities to live more independent lives.

Our experienced team is passionate about working in partnership with you to achieve your independence and inclusion goals.

Our services are available for everyone.

Tailored solutions.
Greater independence.

Greater independence and inclusion for all through allied health and assistive technology solutions.

Solutions for your greater independence may include:

Assistive technology (devices and equipment)

There is a wide range of assistive technology available, including:

- Emergency call systems
- Wheelchairs and scooters
- Telephones
- Showering, toileting and dressing aids
- Kitchen equipment
- Seating, beds and mattresses
- Hoists and transfer aids
- Augmentative and alternative communication (AAC) options
- Smart home technology

At our Experience Centre in Nedlands you can access and trial a wide range of current assistive technology items.

Find assistive technology online

Indigo operates the National Equipment Database (NED), offering information about more than 20,000 assistive technology products available through our partnership with leading suppliers.

At NED, we know assistive products should align to your needs, abilities and aspirations and easily finding the right solution is important too.

Modifications to your home

These may include changes to your bathroom and kitchen, installation of ramps and rails, relocating light switches, adding safety locks and non-slip flooring, altering cupboard and bench heights, installing lever taps and widening doorways.

Support from an allied health professional

Our occupational therapists can support you to learn or regain skills, as well as recommend assistive technology solutions, so you can continue to live independently in a safe environment.

Our physiotherapists can work with you to improve your mobility, balance, strength and endurance.

Our speech pathologists are experienced in working with the latest assistive technologies and communication devices to support communication, learning, recreation, independence and safety.

Training

We offer customised training programs on a range of topics, including assistive technology, communication, home modifications and inclusive technology in schools.
